Zugspitze: far-reaching views between two countries

Germany's highest peak has a fabulous location in the Tyrolean Wetterstein mountains and the summit borders two countries. The car/bus takes you from Seefeld to Garmisch, from where you can get to the top of the Zugspitze (2,962 m) using the funicular and cable cars. Once at the top, the panorama platform and the 360° Panorama Restaurant offer a breathtaking view of the Region Seefeld and more than 400 Alpine peaks in four countries. The Eibsee cable car takes you back down to the valley, where the bus is also waiting for the return journey.

The cable car from the top of the mountain back down to the valley holds 3 world records: the highest steel support (127 m), the greatest difference in altitude between top and bottom station (2 km) and the world's longest free-hanging cable section (3.2 km).

All-round carefree: this sightseeing tour is an organised excursion.
